600 TROOPS HERE FOR ARMY PARADE

$34,000 To Be Expended On County Rural Road System

At the call of the State Highway Department to all county fiscal courts asking for recommendations for expenditure of their rural highway allotments, Judge Homer J. Roberts of Fulton County's fiscal court said that approximately $34,000.00 would be expended this year in the improvement and maintenance of county rural roads.

Fulton County's rural road program was set up at a meeting in Hickman with Judge Roberts and the magistrates of the four county districts. The program was forwarded to the State Highway Department on March 10. Fulton County's share of the $5,000,000 State appropriation for the improvement of rural roads will be spent building from twelve to fifteen miles of new roads and to maintain the existing roads. The appropriation will be forthcoming each year.

The new contract as determined by the fiscal court calls for the expenditure of all of the county's money for this year.

The new roads will be graded, drained and graveled; the existing one will be maintained and filled in with gravel.

Attending the meeting were: Magistrates C. J. Bowers, district one; Clyde Corum, district two; Clay Poyner, district three and Walter Darnell, district four.

The recommendations will cover only the annual appropriation. Suggestions for expenditure of the secondary highway money accruing from the increased gasoline tax will be received later when a formula for the counties has been worked out.

In most instances the work is done by state forces with state-owned equipment. "However," Mr. Huley said, "where counties have registered professional engineers the rural highway fund may be used for the purchase of materials, the county to perform the work with its own forces and at its expense, if it so desires."

BOY SCOUTS COUNCIL HOLDS REGULAR MEET

At the regular dinner meeting of the executive committee of the Four Rivers Council of Boy Scouts at the Rainbow Room on last Friday, the members reviewed the outstanding activities achieved by the council during 1947. A special effort is being made to get all scouts to attend Camp Pakentuck. Means of transportation have been arranged for the Dry Lake District; each district will take care of its own transportation this year. Kenneth Connely, regional executive from the Cincinnati office was a visitor.

Phoebe

A general, a private with colors to true. The stew is boiling, the better for you.

Good gracious, little Phoebe remarked, just because the lady said, "a general, etc.," doesn't mean Mr. Fulton is a general. So she laughed and laughed, 'cause when you think about it, it's so easy when you think mystery man is.

SHORT, SHORT STORIES

By The Staff

Davis Hensley, negro, was arrested last Thursday and charged with the theft of radios and tires from the Little Motor company. He failed to make $400 bond and was placed in jail at Hickman to await trial by the grand jury. According to police, Hensley confessed and a radio was recovered.

LOCAL BUSINESS BRIEFS

E. T. Bennett has returned to Fulton restaurant circles, having purchased the Steak House and assumed management this week. The Steak House will now be known as Bennett's cafe. Hugh Fly, who relinquished management, is putting the finishing touches to the remodel of Smith's Cafe and plans a gala opening around the first week in April.

The Fulton Motor Court down on Highway 51 has received the coveted stamp of approval from Duncan Hines, nationally famous connoisseur of the restaurant and lodging trade. Si Elvert and his gang are still hard at work down there putting the finishing touches to the last of the 32 units that comprise this modern addition for Fulton's million-dollar tourist trade. The court has been operating the majority of its units for several months.

While we are on the subject, Jack Foy has introduced a new sport out on his twin lakes . . . motor-boating . . . Going to be a little rough for the ducks, isn't it Jack?

LAWS REPEALED TO MAKE ARMY DAY EVENT BRIGHTEST ACTIVITY ON YEAR'S CALENDAR

The observance of Army Day in Fulton will be the biggest occasion in perhaps the history of the City when it was revealed (Thursday) by Sgt. Raymond E. Nicholson, station commander of the U. S. Army and Air Force Recruiting Station that more than 600 troops, mounted and dismounted will participate in the gigantic ceremonies here on April 6.

While it is not generally known what type of equipment will be sent here for the occasion it is believed that the most important types of mobile units used in World War II will take part in the huge street parade planned here for 3:30 in the afternoon of April 6.

Baby Woodson Has Wild Ride To Town, But All's Well For 13th Child

There may be babies born in the world with more money, and fame but there is hardly a youngster who will have as much fun and excitement getting here as did the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Woodson of the Watts Community.

About midnight the little fellow announced his intention to arrive here and about seven the following morning the doctor was called and told to expect the mother. An ambulance was called and made its happy way down the highway with a professional attendant from the hospital. Well, it had been raining some, you know, and the approach to the Woodson home was somewhat muddy. But shoot, that didn't matter.

The family went to the highway with a tractor, hitched it to the ambulance and pulled it about a mile to the home. The expectant mother was carried into the vehicle and away they went back to the highway . . . tractor pulling them.

But lo, the Woodson youngster got a little restless from the ride and presently the nurse tapped the ambulance driver on the back.

"Better stop at Water Valley, he's here."

Now the ambulance driver, not quite abreast of the latest in obstetrical procedure when having a baby born in his car was at the mercy of the trio in the back and his first thought was to drive on to Fulton, but no, the nurse said, "Stop up here at Water Valley and get some thread and a scissors."

Obviously he stopped at the first familiar home he saw and jumped the walk and stairs:

"For heavens sake, give me a scissors and some thread, don't know what they want with it, but we've got a baby in the ambulance."

"Well for crying out loud," said the well-known lady, "here's the scissors and thread, but don't expect any help out of me. I don't know what to do."

Whereupon the driver handed the supplies to the nurse and shortly, very shortly the motor started up again, and the party wended its way to Fulton, none the worse for the excitement. But as the calm breezes of the early spring blew into the face of the driver he could hear the lusty wail of a new-born babe . . . funny it wasn't there a couple of miles ago.

"What the heck," he shrugged, "all in a day's work."

Mother and son are doing fine.

Identify Mr. Fulton -- Prizes Nearly $350

How would you like to be the recipient of more than $350 in prizes? They can all be yours by simply writing a letter to the Illinois Central Service Club c/o Jack Foy and telling them in not more than 25 words why you are supporting the Illinois Central Club. Enclose a donation, the size doesn't matter and will have no bearing on the valuable gifts have been donated by generous local merchants in an attempt to help the local IC employees with a fund to build a clubhouse.

Your letter will be received by a committee of three judges and if it is selected as the best one written that week you will be called by telephone and asked, "Who is Mr. Fulton?"

On Monday a new clue was given which little Phoebe is reciting today.

A little detail about the contest: On Station WNGO from four to five p. m. each afternoon except Saturday and Sunday, broadcast by remote control from Jack Foy's Tourist Court, the jingle and the new clue (a refrain from School Days) continues to be broadcast and if you haven't written that letter making you eligible for the handsome prizes the members of the Illinois Central Service Club urge you to do so.

Here's a little about the contest: The Illinois Central Service Club, not content that the Walking Man has been identified, is carrying on the interest of guessing a well known personality, but this time they are bringing the mystery closer home.

The contest operates similar to the national walking man contest, but instead of having a well known national figure, they have selected a man who resides in Fulton.

The mystery is designed to raise funds for the Illinois Central Service Club's building fund. The members want to purchase a clubhouse and the project deserves a pat on the back. They are appealing to their friends in Fulton to help them buy a building here so that they may have a place of their own to hold meetings dances and other dinners with all the trimmings from the Snack Shop in Union City; a suit and dress dry cleaned by Quality Cleaners; a bottle of fine toilet water from Bennett Drug Co.; an oil change and a grease job from Brady's Garage; $2.50 in cash from Dallas Produce Co.; one box of cut roses from Killebrew's Florist shop; a table lamp from Graham Furniture Co.; a delicious $2.00 beef roast from Butts Grocery; $7.50 leather utility kit from Evans Drug Co.; $5.00 worth of cosmetics, Owl Drug Co.; a two pound box of Hollingsworth Candy from City Drug Co.

Print your name, address and phone number on the letter, but do NOT send in the person you think is Mr. Fulton.

As always the merchants of Fulton are cooperating to make the Illinois Central Service Club project a success. Already donated to the Mr. Fulton mystery is a $20 permanent from the Love Beauty Shop for the lady in the family of the person identifying Mr. Fulton; a box of printed personal stationery and a one-year's subscription to the paper by the Fulton County News; a Sportsman's shaving set from Ford Clothing Co., for the man in the family of the person identifying Mr. Fulton; two delicious chicken

RED CROSS WORKERS ARE NEEDED NOW

There are many empty chairs at the Red Cross sewing room when the classes meet at the Postoffice to make baby layettes for the needy children of Europe. The classes meet on Tuesday and Wednesday afternoons and a suggestion has been made that some of the bridge clubs playing on those afternoons could defer a meeting to help with the projects.

"The need now for such garments is even more critical now than during the war and since the women worked so hard then they are asked to give up a little free time to help now," Mrs. Hazel Scruggs, chairman of the sewing unit said. Interested workers are asked to call Mrs. Robert Graham or Mrs. Noble T. Morsel.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

"Reality" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all Christian Science churches throughout the world on Sunday, March 23, 1948.

The Golden Text is: "Thine, O Lord, is the greatness, and the power, and the glory, and the victory, and the majesty: for all that is in the heaven and in the earth is thine; thine is the kingdom, O Lord, and thou art exalted as head above all." (1 Chron. 29:11).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "For since the beginning of the world men have not heard, nor perceived by the ear, neither hath the eye seen, O God, beside thee, what he hath prepared for him that waiteth for him." (Isa. 64:4).

All are welcome to our services.

I have never heard anything about the resolutions of the apostles, but a great deal about their acts.—Horace Mann.

Deliberate with caution, but act with decision; and yield with graciousness, or oppose with firmness.—Colton.

The chief value of superior knowledge is that it leads to a performing manhood.—Bovee.

What is LICENSED SALE?

The Kentucky business man, and his employees, cannot prosper if the people of the state and community do not prosper.

A community which enjoys the benefits of Licensed Sale of beverages is a community that draws trade . . . not only to the beverage store, but also to the food shop, the meat market, the shoe store and all other business establishments. The legal, licensed alcoholic beverage industry provides pay checks for many thousands of Kentuckians throughout the state. These pay checks flow into cash registers of Kentucky business men . . . make more trade, more jobs, more prosperity!

WHAT IS PROHIBITION?

Businessmen in so-called "dry" areas know that prohibition harms business. Trade flows from prohibition, toward Licensed Sale. The loss of beverage taxes and license fees in "dry" communities opens the door to higher taxes to replace this lost revenue. Prohibition is a business-killer.

Unless the Governor vetoes House Bill 485, which would give fourth class cities like Fulton the privilege to make their own tax assessments and collect their own school taxes, the bill will bring into being a law that will greatly benefit the local school system. To say that a new law has been made means nothing in itself, but when one goes behind the scenes to see how that law was made, then the law takes on even greater meaning.

We have specific reference to the work done not only by our own citizens, but by the exceptionally fine men who represent us in the State Legislature.

Let's take first the man Harvey Pewitt, Fulton and Hickman Counties representative in the General Assembly. When he was first approached with the plan to introduce a law to assist our school system, he was not daunted by the Herculean, almost impossible task of introducing a non-existent bill at the eleventh hour—we might say eleventh minute. It would have been a blow to a man of lesser courage, but not to Harvey Pewitt. He used his influence with his colleagues to hold the floor until the bill was drafted, and then introduced it in the final seconds of the session. Harvey Pewitt is serving his first term in the legislature, but knowing him as we do, it was no difficult task for him to build up the respect and admiration of his fellow legislators. He's just that type of a man. We believe we can say without fear of contradiction that the bill could not have become a law if it had not been for his superior, almost heroic work.

Harvey is a prominent and efficient farmer of this county. His friends are numbered by his acquaintances. If we have failed to express our real gratitude for his work and to show the high calibre of human being that he is, just ask any farmer around here and they'll tell you what we mean when we say that Harvey Pewitt is a man worth knowing. It's a privilege to have him represent us in the General Assembly.

After leaving the house the bill was handled in the Senate by Charles Waggoner, Senator from this district. We have not had the pleasure of meeting him personally, but we are told by the folks who know him best that Mr. Waggoner is, and has been, a great credit to the district he represents. He mustered the needed votes in the Senate for passage of the bill, and it must be a great deal of satisfaction to both Mr. Pewitt and Mr. Waggoner to know the real feeling of gratitude the people of Fulton County feel for them.

May we take off our spring bonnet to both these men and wish them Godspeed in all their future undertakings.

Call It "Mouthsappin"

We regret more than we can say that the fine young men and women who participated in the home talent production of "Cornzapoppin" should have the memories of their work in that play kicked around the streets with fake, fraud, and stupidity labeled to them.

It's a serious business to label a project a fraud, even if the accuser was "in on the know."

We've been in the newspaper business a great many years, and we have seen high-pressure artists come and go. We might say that the director who worked with the Junior Woman's Club here was somewhat out of the ordinary along those lines, and we told the members that privately, but its another thing to have one's scrapbook contain a clipping that labeled a project a fake. It will be hard to explain to the kiddies in future years just what it was all about.

The Junior Woman's Club has done a great piece of work here. They were as chagrined as the next person with some of the tactics used by the director and we know that they feel deeply the possibility that their name was used in any offensive dealings. We believe they are hurt . . . as hurt as we are that the curtain fell on their project the way it did.

Shortly after the director came into town and we witnessed her manner of approach to the good and faithful merchants, we thought it a good idea if a secret committee of the Chamber of Commerce could be appointed to clear any and all forms of solicitation for advertising from local firms. We made the suggestion and think we have made some headway.

While we reserve the right to our own private opinions on a great many local projects, we cannot feel it within our province to use the mighty weapon that is the newspaper to condemn our fellowman when they do not have a comparable weapon to fight back.

We saw "Cornzapoppin." We told Mrs. Hoodenpyle that the young folks did a good job . . . our one regret was that she did not direct it. It would have been a grand and memorable success . . . with the proper coaching. As it was, their work was even better for having done it on their own.

Yes, we share the chagrin of many parents for the label "Cornzapoppin" has been handed.

And we share too the concern of the merchants on the growing number of requests made of them for monies not within the realm of legitimate advertising.

Many people enjoyed "Cornzapoppin." Who are we to judge a man's form of entertainment.

THE GOLDEN HILLS

Grace Nell Crowell

ONCE in a dark and troubled time
When I saw no road ahead,
A wise and kindly counselor
Sat by my side and said:
"Each morning I drive down a valley road"
To get to my work, and I
Can often see nothing at all for the fog
That blots out the earth and sky;
But I say to myself, 'I shall drive ahead,
Carefully, without sight.
For I know I shall come onto higher ground
Where the hills are gold with light!
And I just keep on . . ."
Oh, wise kind words
That fell on my heart that day,
Nothing can blot them from my mind,
Nothing can take them away,
And now when a thick fog shuts me in
To choke me and blind my eyes,
I am so glad for the hills ahead,
For the friend who was kind and wise!

About

Political Rumblings

Secretary of Agriculture Anderson's decision to run for the Senate in the place of Senator Hatch, from New Mexico, has stirred up a hornet's nest of debate here. Republican opponents claim he is merely deserting the Administration's sinking ship. His friends point out that Anderson has long had his eye on the Senate, and has stayed in the relatively quiet Department post mainly out of loyalty to the party.

A good party man, Anderson didn't announce his decision before consulting the Democratic high command. It was a perplexing problem for President Truman. Generally credited with one of the better minds in the Cabinet, Anderson has been a tower of party strength—a weighty reason for keeping him where he is. But the N. M. Republican candidate for the Senate will be Pat Hurley. It will take a strong Democrat to beat him. So the President says he will "reluctantly" accept Anderson's resignation.

Conservation Legislation

The government's research and educational activities on conservation should be coordinated through the Land Grant Colleges and the Extension Service. This is what John A. Hannah, president of Michigan State College, told the House Agriculture Committee last week. Mr. Hannah described the current overlapping of educational functions as "unfortunate." He said the situation can be resolved by legislation. Only the week before, AFBF President Allan Klaine had also recommended that research activities be brought together through the Land Grant Colleges. The Committee expects to report out a coordination bill within the next ten days.

International Outlook

Something of the wartime tension returned to Washington last week.

THE CAMPUS PICNIC

Shortly after the recent War Training by Jr. College at Martin had gotten under way, Mr. Meeks, Executive Head of the Tennessee institution, and Lt. Pierce, Naval Officer in charge of the Aviation program, decided that a picnic on the campus for faculty members and their wives would be a fine thing to encourage better acquaintance with the new instructors and to promote a closer union between the old and the newly added members of the staff.

It was a perfect September night, balmy and moonlit with just that degree of warmth to make tea and collas doubly delicious. The provision for food was sort of pot luck proposition; so with fried chicken as our contribution my wife and I joined the merry group about the long tables already beginning to sag under the weight of the high piled dishes of sliced ham, fried chicken, deviled eggs, pickles, stuffed tomatoes, potato salad, tall two-storied meringue topped pies, sweet potato and corn puddings. All about introductions were being given and received. Then the eagerly awaited signal was given that "soup was on." Yet there I was still holding an empty platter while all the others' plates were being heaped to the load limit for paper dishes, still trying to introduce the English professor to Mrs. Allen.

"This is Kathleen, my wife, Professor—er, er, er, ah of Speech Art," I interpolated, for the life of me unable to recall his name; I spared for time, relating frantically to my wife every accomplishment of the professor I'd ever heard of, hoping the light would dawn at least before the last white portions of the succulent fried chicken would be selected. Mrs. Meek's chef-d'oeuvres and canapes were vanishing rapidly. By now I had about the same portion of the professor's attention as remained of Mrs. Phillips' corn pudding. In fact, Mr. Woods was about to dip the last of the succulent fried chicken for one of the three remaining chicken livers. Such trenchermen as Mr. McMill and Prof. Gordon and Mr. Meeks had early laid claims to shore-legs, pully-bones, breasts and drumsticks. Drooling but still patient, Kathleen was registering a nervousness bordering on alarm, expecting me to say with every breath, "Mr. So and So, this is my wife Kathleen." Still the best I could do was suddenly to recall that his name was somewhat similar to mine. But which name, Christian, middle or sir?

Then, as Mr. Bowman, Mr. Kroll and Dr. Steinbeck were beginning to maneuver down to the cake end of the table—and Bette McDaniel and Lt. Pierce were casting eyes upon Mrs. McMinns' potato pies; when the chicken was down to gizzards and necks and the ham was gone entirely; when the last area of white on my two-toned moccasins had become black under the repeated nudging of my wife's slipper, a flash of light struck my perspiring memory—A-I-I-e-n!

"Prof. Allen, this is my wife Kathleen!"

round, it will from the next.

Grain Buying

The Government is back in the wheat market. By purchasing one million bushels a day, officials hope to reduce the market impact. The Government also intends to do its buying between 11 and 12 a. m. Central Standard Time. Early this week, prices had shown only a slight flurry, but some experts expect a more substantial rise to follow from the action.

Long-Range Policy

The House Committee now plans to complete its "grass roots" hearings on long-range farm policy during the Easter recess. Its travel schedule includes hearings in Denver on March 22, in Salt Lake City on the next day, and in Spokane on March 25. The tour will probably wind up in Fresno on March 29.

Farm Prices

Agriculture Department economists see little possibility of a serious farm-price drop. Recent declines, they say, are the natural result of better crops abroad and heavy production at home. But basic demand is buttressed high industrial output and favorable consumer incomes. So they aren't too worried about the four per cent drop which occurred in the BLS wholesale price index in February. This decline was largely due to a drop of nine per cent in farm product prices and six per cent in foods.

We try to provide a beautiful and fitting tribute to the departed.

VALVE-IN-HEAD
is far ahead!

in performance and economy . . .
in ruggedness and reliability!

1 In the world's champion Chevrolet engine, the valves are located in the head of the cylinder, directly over the pistons . . . hence the name, Valve-in-Head.

2 Valve-in-Head design provides faster intake of fuel mixture . . . and quicker and more complete exhaust of burned gases . . . all of which contributes to better performance and economy.

3 Valve-in-Head design also permits a more compact combustion chamber; and this, together with Chevvrolet's "Blue Flame" combustion, means more driving power for the pistons—less heat loss—and maximum economy.

Valve-in-Head engines are inherently easier to cool; and Chevrolet's individual cooling of cylinders prevents waste of power—promotes efficient operation—prolongs engine life.

Automotive experts and millions of motorists agree: Valve-in-Head is far ahead because it gives an outstanding combination of performance, endurance, dependability and economy. . . . Chevrolet—master builder of this master motor—has proved this by producing more than 20 million Valve-in-Head engines during the past thirty-seven years—engines which hold the distinction of having delivered more billions of miles of satisfaction, to more owners, over a longer period, than any other power-plant built today! Chevrolet's World's Champion Valve-in-Head engine is another powerful reason why CHEVROLET AND ONLY CHEVROLET IS FIRST . . . another convincing proof that only Chevrolet gives BIG-CAR QUALITY AT LOWEST COST!

CHEVROLET and ONLY CHEVROLET IS FIRST!

CALLING ALL OUTDOORS MEN

Money spent for fishing licenses each year is but a small portion of the annual expenditure by sportsmen in pursuit of the finny samsters, but even in itself it is big business in dollars. A report from the U.S. Fish & Wildlife Service disclosed that 12,620,464 persons bought fishing licenses for the last fiscal year at a total cost of $22,667,301. This was an increase of 1,551,747 in numbers, and $7,663,505 in dollars, over the previous year.

This bears out the trend of upping the fishing licenses fees which we mentioned a few columns back. An average cost of $1.75 per license last year, as against approximately $1.25 the previous year, is shown by the report.

In the number of licenses sold, Michigan topped all the states with 989,333 and California ranked second with 848,446. California, however, was the No. 1 state in dollar income with $1,718,066. Other leading states in the number of licenses issued were Minnesota 765,335; Ohio 669,613; Wisconsin 653,147; New York 631,238; Pennsylvania 599,572; Illinois 536,868; Missouri 526,737; and Indiana 522,033.

Other figures of interest disclosed in the report were that tourists, fishing for sport in waters outside their home states, purchased 1,464,698 non-resident fishing licenses, an increase of 371,599 over the preceding year. Michigan again topped all states in the sale of licenses to out-of-staters with 263,721. Wisconsin ranked second with 224,330 and Minnesota third with 165,425. Tennessee, Colorado and Maine followed in that order. Rhode Island brought up the rear in non-resident license sales with only 220. North Dakota was close behind with 280. Delaware had the lowest total sale with 4,298 resident and 1,450 non-resident licenses.

The figures last year established new records for all license sales, but, if we are guessing correctly, these new marks will stand only as records until this year's figures are announced. There's every indication that the coming season will see the greatest army of fishermen converging on the streams, rivers and lakes this country has ever known. So, we'd better keep on our toes and start slugging for improved conservation and more sane and sensible creel limits if we want to keep the great outdoors productive in fish and enjoyment.

It's your Army. Honor it on Army Day—April 6.

Crutchfield Homemakers Meets With Mrs. Binford

The Crutchfield Homemakers Club held its regular meeting March 15 at the home of Mrs. O.A. Binford.

There were 16 members and four visitors present. Visitors were Mrs. Clarence Graham, Mrs. Jack Graham, Mrs. Cavender and Mrs. Pauline Waggoner.

The devotion was given by Mrs. T. R. Howell. Mrs. Roy Jarvis read the thought for the month. The minutes and the treasurer's report were read and approved.

Mrs. McLeod and Mrs. McClanahan gave a report on the meeting of the Advisory Council. Plans were discussed on the work to be taken up next year by the Homemakers.

The landscape chairman gave a short talk on gardening.

The lesson was given by Mrs. J.P. Williams and Mrs. Gerald Binford on window and door treatment. This was very interesting. Mrs. Waggoner gave a very good lesson on style trend.

A covered dish luncheon was served buffet style and was enjoyed by all.

The lesson was very long so the recreational leader had time for only one game.

The next meeting will be in April with Mrs. Geland Howell.

Farmer Turns "Water Faucet" Grows 163 Bushels of Corn

Fort Morgan, Colo. (Special)—Last summer, when drouth gripped the cornfields of the Nation, Harold Lenhardt, who farms 80 acres near here, turned on the "water faucet" and produced a record-breaking corn yield. He grew 163 bushels per acre. His yield won the 1947 National DeKalb Corn Growing Championship, and the Colorado State Championship. "Faucet farmer" Lenhardt farms by irrigation with water from the huge South Platte Valley irrigation system. In addition, he has a 135 foot well for emergency use.

Second and third place winners in the DeKalb Corn Contest were also Colorado irrigation farmers. John and Edwin Frieauf of Brush, Colo. (above left), grew 161.6 bushels per acre for second place in the Nation, and W. E. Ambrose (shown with wife), a 75-year old farmer from Fort Morgan, Colo., took third with 150.3 bushels per acre.

WIN KENTUCKY CHAMPIONSHIP

Not only did Henry and Monroe Cook, 15 year old twins, of Butler County, win the 1947 Kentucky DeKalb Corn Growing Championship, but also captured honors as National Junior Champions in the DeKalb Contest with 136.3 bushels per acre on their selected 5-acre contest plot. They spring-plowed, disked and drilled their corn in 38 inch rows on May 1. Their contest field had been in pasture for at least three years before the 1947 season. All yields in the DeKalb Contest were made on selected 5-acre contest plots.

ACTIONS

Thought is the essence of an art, and the stronger element of action; even as steam is more powerful than water, simply because it is more ethereal.—Mary Eddy.

The actions of men are like the index of a book; they point out what is most remarkable in them.—David Thomas.

It is vain to expect any advantage from our profession of the truth if we be not sincerely just and honest in our actions.—James Sharpe.

That fescue 31 will do a great deal for the livestock of Monroe county as a winter pasture is the opinion of Farm Agent Jutus L. Ellis. As examples, he told how Buford Kerr and C. H. Dickerson pastured their fescue continually from October 1 to January 1, the cattle requiring little other feed to keep them in fine shape. Charlie Graves says that his five acres of fescue will pasture 30 head of sheep through January and February.

The rat is one creature about which it is difficult to say anything good. It is to have a supply of insecticides on hand before they strike.

PATRICA LATANE

Write your problems to Miss Latane, care of the Fulton County News and she will answer them through her column.

Miss Latane, I am a girl 16 years old and I don't like the boys that my mother does. What can I do? C.W.

My dear C. W. If I were you I would set right down and have a talk with my mother. I'm sure when you grow older you will understand, but as you don't know I would sit down and ask mother. Now I'm sure she can explain from your hand writing I see you are a very happy-go-lucky person; very smart. There will be great honors placed upon you in the next two years. You are inclined to either be a model or radio star and I would rather think you will be a model don't worry you will succeed.

Miss Latane: I am a girl 28 years old and have two children. I am going with a fellow whom I think a whole lot of, and he asked me to marry him but he doesn't like children. My children do not get along with him. J.L.M.

Dear J. L. M. Leave him alone. Go your way and let him go his. Surely there is someone else you have been keeping company with. Perhaps he will be good to you and also your children. That means a whole lot. Why don't you stop and think. You will happier with the colder man.

Miss Latane, Please tell me what do you honestly think about the way girls have taken up pursuing the men. Asking them for dates, paying for their entertainment, etc., and taking the lead in courting in all the various ways? I know /its leap year, to be sure, but don't you really think it is a rather immodest, unladylike, for a girl to conduct herself? Do you think men really admire bold, forward girls even in this modern age? A.C.

My dear A. C. I have always heard anything was fair in love and war, but there are two types men as well as girls. Some would never get married if a girl didn't take the lead. The other type man likes the old fashioned girl who lets the man take the lead. However, it would be embarrassing for me to go some place with a man then have to get up and pay the check, or else buy the tickets. Some men like this. They like to leave the impression to the public that the girl is so in love with him that they are willing to foot all the bills to go out with them and there are those who have so much pride they wouldn't go out with a girl that would open her purse to pay for something. I would say that a man much rather be out with a young lady who would let him take the lead, which bold women don't do. When a woman does this courting it makes the men think she is a little on the cheap side. Times change. This is a modern age, but when a boy goes to marry he still looks for that girl that doesn't throw herself on men. However a girl can in a round about way ask a boy for a date and he will never know she is asking him. That is if she is smart which most girls are. Men don't like to think they are going with a dumb girl and on someone else

Farmers Busy Counting Sheep, But They're After Profits, Not Sleep

By IRA MILLER
Farm Electrification Bureau

Farmers are counting more sheep than ever this year—but it's not in an effort to put themselves to sleep. They're doing it with their eyes open and by simply expanding the size of their flocks.

Reasons for the increased interest in sheep can be traced to the following economic, agricultural and mechanical research developments: 1—America's annual usage of raw wool perfs often were required to shear the flock.

Electric shears, however, removed sheep shearing operations from the complicated, "back-breaking" class. They have done much to put many operators of small farms back in the sheep raising business. Fundamental of machine shearing can be learned in a few hours by the average farm boy or girl.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture has this to say about electric shearing machines: "They are more has jumped to a current high of 1,000,000,000 pounds, an amount which far exceeds the present domestic supply. 2—Agricultural science has helped farmers overcome their sheep raising problems and assisted them in the production of better quality fleeces. 3—New tools have been developed to speed up and simplify shearing chores.

"NOTHING TO IT," says 14-year-old Skowhegan, Me., girl as she wins first in state fair sheep shearing contest.

Even though the development of new shearing tools is listed last above, it is by no means least. In fact, the use of electric shearing machines is one of the major factors responsible for making sheep raising profitable on average size farms. Until such equipment came into general use, the wool harvest was one of the most difficult and time consuming of all seasonal farm jobs. In addition, one or more hand blade shearing ex-rapid; another work is done with them and the ewes are injured less. It is easy to use them and more wool is obtained than where hand shears are used. In test trials, sheep were sheared by machine in from 15 to 20 percent less time than that required by experienced men operating hand shears. Machine shearing also produced 10 percent more wool during the trials.

Not only does the use of electric shears result in a more abundant wool crop, but the wool removed is of the longest staple possible. A harvest of wool of this quality grade better and brings higher prices because it contains fewer "seconds cuts." Operating costs of electric shears are low, each handpiece requiring no more electricity than the needed to light an incandescent lamp of average wattage.

KFB TO ERECT NEW BUILDING

Simple ground-breaking ceremonies were performed this week on the site of the $140,000 home office building being constructed by the Kentucky Farm Bureau Federation.

It is being built on south Hubbards Lane, between Shelbyville Road and Norbourne Blvd. in St. Matthews, and the contract held by the F. W. Owens Construction Co., calls for completion by October 15.

J. E. Stanford, Louisville, Federation executive secretary, wielded the spade and said, "This is the fulfillment of a dream started in 1941, when the organization set aside $5,000 and earmarked it for a home office building. To each of us it is a red letter day in the organization. It means we will have facilities for more efficient operation and services to our membership."

Continuing, he said, "May the building here erected be a power house to generate inspiration, information, education, leadership and efficiency to promote and protect the interest of the farmers of Kentucky. May it ever symbolize the power of unity, understanding, group effort and cooperation in making Kentucky farm people hap-

The modernistically-designed two-story building is to have 12,000 square feet of floor space. It will be built of reinforced concrete, with a brick facing and concrete slab roof, making it a fire-proof type structure. It will occupy about one-fourth of the lot belonging to the Federation, leaving the balance for expansion, and will house the Federation and all of its affiliates.

Roundhouse Round-Up

By Alice Clark

As I sit writing this article it is a pretty day, the sun is shining it's just like a spring day and I know we are all feeling good, and care free, you know that kind of care-less, well the main thing is lets don't get to careless and forget our safety rules, as you know when you get careless you and you alone are the one to pay when you hurt yourself or worse if you are hurt where you can't work for a few weeks or maybe for life, your family also pays a debt that they didn't make, they are paying for a debt made by you, so lets all be careful, so we want have to pay any debt. You know that is our New Year's resolution.

Seaman 1-c Boyd Edward Williams, son of Mrs. Lennis Williams telephone operator for the I.C. at Jackson, Tenn., has arrived in Fulton for a sixty day visit with his family. He recently completed 27 months service in China. He is at the home of his grandmother, Mrs. A. L. Shuck.

What is the talk of the town? "Who is Mr. Fulton?"

Machinist A. D. Pittman is on his vacation, which is being spent in Louisville and Corinth, Miss.

Machinist Helper William Sampson is on his vacation.

Carlman and Mrs. Robert Howell were the guests of Mrs. T. P. Clark in Jackson, Tenn., over the week end. Mr. and Mrs. Preston Ray and son, Preston Jr., and wife spent Sunday in Memphis visiting friends and relatives.

Carman Sarl Parton is back to work after a two week vacation. Carman and Mrs. James E. Smith and daughter and Dave Smith are visiting Mrs. Smith's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Addie Austin in Columbus, Ga.

Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Thomas and daughter, Betty were in Jackson, Tenn., Wednesday while Mrs. Thomas had an appointment with the doctor. Miss Betty did some last minute Easter shopping.

Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Smith has moved from m110 Valley street to Route 4 Fulton.

Who is that knocking? "Mr. Fulton."

Mrs. M. M. Matlock was in Paducah Wednesday for a check up at the I. C. Hospital.

We are glad to see that Engineer H. W. Ruddle is able to be up and around.

Let's don't forget the overall and apron dance at Jack Foys' tourist court April 9, 1948, tickets are on sale at the City Drug Co., tickets are $1.00 in advance or $1.25 at the door.

So long till next week, see you the same place same time and in the same news.

Betty: "Do you know that you are wearing your ring on the wrong finger?"

Ethel: "Yes, I married the wrong man."

FIND $960! THINK OF LOSING IT

What would you do if you found $960? You'd be the happiest person in the world, no doubt.

But what would you do if you lost $960, and that money amounting to your "entire life's saving"? You'd be the sickest person in the world, hoping and praying that the person who found it would have an ounce of human kindness and return it.

Then put yourself in the position of Mrs. Maggie Laird an employee of the Henry I. Seigel Company, who lost her life's savings of $960. Mrs. Laird had sold her small farm, had paid off some debts and was going to put the rest away for a rainy day. But the rainy day is here, much sooner than she expected.

Carefully rolled in a tobacco bag, Mrs. Laird had the money pinned to her underclothing and checked ever so often to see that the money was still there. She went to lunch and returned to the factory, but her check on returning revealed that the money had been lost.

If you found that money, or know of anyone who did find it, please get in touch with Mrs. Laird or the Fulton County News. No questions will be asked, and besides the finder will receive a $200 reward.

Mr. and Mrs. Laird are farmers of near Dukedom and have a sixteen year old son, James Russell. They would be forever grateful to anyone giving any information leading to the recovery of the lost money.

MODERN CONVENIENCES

People who are under forty, especially in towns and cities, may have considerable difficulty in believing that so many of our so-called modern conveniences were entirely absent or virtually unknown when I left Fidelity at Christmas, 1906. We have a way of talking for granted that what was here when we could first remember had always been here. As I so often say, a genuine historical sense is lacking in most people.

Suppose we enumerate some of the modern conveniences that few people had forty years ago. Screens for houses were barely coming in most parts of Kentucky then. Where I stayed when I taught my first school, in 1907, there were screens around the kitchen and dining rooms, but elsewhere, even in my own room, they were lacking though two big horseponds were within a few yards of my windows. Many of my old neighbors at Fidelity fought screens as bitterly as they had previously fought Yankees. Every time I hear some fatuous person bragging about Negro cooks on the fine old plantations, I cannot help thinking about this lack of screens and other things.

Just before I left Fidelity, the parcel post law was passed. What would country or city people do today without parcel post packages? When the law went into effect, there was a perfect orgy of buying from mail order houses. Formerly we had had to instruct the company to ship our stuff by express or freight; now we could go to our mailboxes on the Big Road and get our packages. You must remember, also, that thousands of the rural free delivery routes of today were not in existence until long after 1906. But at nearly every crossroad there was a tiny postoffice, where the coveted parcel could be picked up.

Telephones were by no means common in 1906. I still rejoice that I was one of the crew that put up the first telephone line east of Fidelity. I got to use the party line for nearly two years before I left the farm. Remote as Fidelity was, there were plenty of places where the telephone did not extend until long after I helped introduce the contraption to our end of the county.

The first automobile I ever saw was in a show window at Clinton when I arrived there on December 27, 1906, to begin my education. It was not much bigger than an old-fashioned cart minus the shafts. People passed that show window in droves and made all the known wise cracks about the horseless carriage. A little later I saw an auto at Paducah that had come down to meet the train. And the thing actually started, after a deal of coughing and fit of St. Vitus dance. When I arrived at Bowling Green, in 1908, there was just three cars here, and how they did scare horses! As late as 1913, the year I got married, it was not at all rare for country boys to throw rocks at passing automobiles, as if the machines were some unearthly things that must be outlawed.

In 1927, when Lindbergh flew alone across the Atlantic, the number of radios in my town was very limited. I recall that I happened to be at the home of one of our faculty members on a matter of business that day, when someone turned on the radio and accidentally found Charles Lindbergh talking. I think that was one of the first broadcasts I recall having heard. Of course, there had been many previous ones, but I had not heard them. My own first radio dates from 1932, quite late in world history, of course, but school teachers are not and have never been blessed with much money.

How queer all these things must seem to any younger person who reads this column! But maybe you, too, will soon be recalling how many new gadgets have come into use since you were only a child.

VETERANS NEWS

Prior authorization for the "home town" treatment of service-connected medical or dental disabilities must be obtained from the Veterans Administration, VA officials in Columbus, Ohio emphasized today.

Contacts between VA and the medical and dental associations in Ohio, Michigan and Kentucky provide that designated physicians and dentists may render treatment in service-connected cases when treatment is not "feasibly available."

However, some veterans are neglecting to obtain the necessary VA approval before starting treatments. VA medical officials said that without pre-approval the physicians and dentists rendering the treatment cannot be reimbursed for their services, nor can veterans be reimbursed if they have paid part or all of the bill.

Veterans entitled to medical or dental care for service-connected disabilities should apply for approval at their nearest VA office.

One out of every 3 World War II veterans has taken some form of education or training under the G.I. Bill or Public Law 16 since both laws went into effect, Veterans Administration said today.

The number of veterans in educational institutions and on job training establishments under both laws has reached a record high of 2,801,687, VA said.

World War II veterans in Ohio, Michigan and Kentucky have negotiated 142,657 home, farm and business loans in the amount of $803,495,481 under loan guaranty terms of the G.I. Bill, Veterans Administration Branch Office in Columbus, Ohio reported today.

The loans were made by various lending institutions, with VA guaranteeing 47 per cent of the total amount.

The loan volume by states has been: Ohio, 74,760 loans, $443,014,911; Michigan, 54,153 loans, $298,249,061; Kentucky 13,744 loans, $67,230,709.

VA said home loans accounted for 93 per cent of the total.

QUICK SERVICE LAUNDERALL

156 WEST STATE LINE - FULTON, KY.

This is John Smith, a neighbor of yours. He's a Kentucky worker, a proud, important man. He helped to make the mattress you slept on last night, the dishes you eat from, the rugs you walk on. He made the clothes you wear, whether you're dressed in overalls or a white shirt. He operated the lathe that fluted the legs on your dining room table.

Relax into a chair, turn on the lamp, tune your radio, or play your favorite phonograph record. He made them all. Just as he made the water heater from which you draw hot water. Just as he made the very bricks in your house, and the peanut butter that went on your son's after-school snack.

Is that all he made? No, indeed! Those are just some of the NEW industries that have started in Kentucky during '46-'47.

During the past two years, 47 new industries came into the 72 counties Kentucky Utilities serves. These 47 new industries will pay nearly $13,000,000 in wages each year to 7,347 workers.

That's not all, either. During 1947, in this same area in Kentucky, there was a net gain of 1,490 new businesses of all kinds—filling stations, groceries, offices, shops, and the like.

John Smith, this neighbor of yours, works in these industries, these groceries and garages today. And, being a typical American, he can see no reason why, in a few years, he shouldn't be running them—even owning them. He's surrounded by successful men who started at the bottom.

John Smith, American worker, knows electricity is the worker's partner in progress, in creating jobs, in making his efforts more productive and profitable. Expanding electricity means expanding industry. Your electric company, Kentucky Utilities Company, has always met the demands for more power. It is preparing to do so in the future—with the largest expansion program in its history.

The phone rang at our house on Tuesday. Attempting to get that last delicious wink we told the maid to answer it and take the message.

The conversation went like this: "Yes'm."

"Next Tuesday, well'em-all right, I'll tell her."

"Yes'm. Thank you mam."

On entering the room we asked the good old faithful servant who called and what was the message.

"It was some lady from the Women's Club and she said to tell you that the PaJahma department of the club ain't goin' to meet tonight."

She couldn't understand why we laughed, "that's what the lady said," sez she.

Izzatso?

Then there were 2 ladies who had engaged in an hour's conversation over one of the rural phones. After running down every neighbor in the area they decided things were risky. Here's how:

"Well suppose I'd better run over and tell you what I heard about, you know who?"

"Why can't you tell me now?" "Oh I wouldn't dare over the phone, you know how these operators are, they know everybody's business in town."

"Oh, is that so, I didn't know that," answered the newcomer to the area.

"Oh, yes its the truth," said the wisest, "they're always leaving the lines open to hear every word you have to say."

Came a new voice, raging with indignation, "that's not true and you know it."

It was the operator's voice! yes sir!

So help us that's a true story.

The elderly treasurer of a ladies' aid society was in the bank to deposit the organization's funds. She handed the money over to a hard-of-hearing teller with the casual remark that it was the "aid money."

The teller though she said "egg money" and he promptly wanted to compliment her on the organization's endeavor.

"Remarkable," he said, "isn't it, how well the old hens are doing these days."
